Position: Director of Production

Are you passionate about aviation and ready-to-lead production operations that keep the world's aircraft flying? We are searching for an inspiring Production Director to oversee our dynamic production environment, delivering excellence on military and commercial aircraft like the F-16, AWACS, Airbus, and Boeing variants.

This position leads five production lines, four team leaders, and 60+ talented mechanics, testers, and certifying staff. You'll ensure operations run smoothly, drive innovation, and uphold the highest industry standards in quality and safety — all while fostering a culture of teamwork and continuous improvement.

As the Production Director, you will:

- Oversee and optimize five production lines, ensuring smooth and effective operations.
- Lead, coach, and inspire a team of 60+ skilled mechanics and four team leaders.
- Champion a culture of collaboration, learning, and operational excellence.
- Implement meaningful changes that enhance efficiency and align with strategic goals.
- Maintain strict compliance with aerospace industry quality and safety standards.
- Work closely with stakeholders to align production with the business vision and objectives.
- Be part of our Management Team.

We're looking for a motivated aviation professional who:

- Has a solid technical or production background in the aviation industry.
- Demonstrates excellent leadership skills and a genuine interest in people.
- Brings a relevant educational background and a strong understanding of Lean principles.
- Easily navigate operational, tactical, and strategic priorities.
- Is a problem-solver who can achieve short-term results while delivering long-term value.
- Has a pragmatic approach and a sense of humor to inspire and energize the team.
